Planning for the New Work Day

As you welcome your team back to the office, allowing for safe collaboration and human interaction will be key. Thoughtful additions such as privacy and wellness screens will help prioritize well-being while promoting flexibility and productivity. Using clear acrylic options will allow people to communicate face-to-face, while frosted or white material options will help maintain privacy, yet promote a sense of openness allowing light to flow through. Applications are endless - from office spaces to education environments, to hospitality setting - your team can stay productive and safe with the right wellness solutions in place.
